

RIB rafting trip to the Sværholt peninsula and spend the night at Tamsøya

Experience the Sværholt peninsula from the sea. We make landfall in magical Castle bay, and combine this refreshing rafting trip with spending the night at Tamsøya.

Maybe there'll be cloudberry for dessert

The southern end of the island

Practical info and pricing

The trip begins in Repvåg at 2pm from the old ferry pier. If you are in need of a parking space for your car, we have free and available spots along the fence of the big blue house with an adjacent red barn. Here you'll embark onto our 35 feet, 600 horse-powered RIB boat with a top speed of 50 knots, after being equipped with a floatation suit and life vest, of course.

Olaf, your captain, will take you along on a rafting trip like none other. From the very beginning this is a beautiful experience, as we pass the Repvåg cliffs where herds of shags nest. Next up is Sjøholmen – an uninhabited little island with a rich birdlife and wild landscape on the northern side, before we pass Lille Tamsøy – the little sister to Tamsøya. Then, the most remote part of the trip is coming up – the north-eastern side of the Porsanger fjord, and Slottsvika – Castle Bay. If the weather allows it, we'll make landfall here and explore the shoreline and its spectacular sights.

The tower at Castle Bay

From one of the rooms

A part of the stone castle

After Castle Bay, we'll follow the eastern sea line of the Sværholt peninsula past Sinkelvik, Horrvika, Brennvika and Kjæsklubben, before we finally head towards Tamsøya. We estimate this reach the island at about 5pm.

Once here, you'll be greeted in surroundings reminiscent of the 50's. The buildings are still the very same ones they erected during the post-WWII era, and not much (sans maintenance, of course) has been altered since. You'll light the fire with birch firewood provided by us, and in the evening, we'll cook dinner on the grill. In the morning, breakfast with homemade bread will be served in the old berry shed, before we depart back to Repvåg at 11am.

The following conditions must be met for us to be able to arrange the trip: weather and a minimum of signups. We'll update you with further info on this when it's getting close to your booked trip.

Total price per person: 4000NOK